Taking into consideration the establishment of the centres of excellence on forensic analysis (Costa Rica), drug demand reduction and prison reform (Dominican Republic), urban crime prevention (El Salvador), transnational organized crime (Guatemala) and maritime security (Panama), whose prime objective is to promote interregional cooperation in criminal matters through the exchange of experience and reliable statistics, along with regional capacity-building for experts and officials involved in crime prevention and criminal investigation,

1. Urges Member States participating in networks for legal cooperation to strengthen international cooperation in criminal matters and the coordination among such networks;

2. Recommends that interaction between regional networks should preserve the fundamental principles, traditions and distinctive features of each regional network and should take into account differences in legal systems and legal cultures;

3. Encourages Member States to facilitate the establishment of similar regional networks, to the extent possible through, inter alia, training and the exchange of best practices in criminal matters, with the assistance of the United Nations Office on Drugs and Crime as necessary;

4. Recommends that the Conference of the Parties to the United Nations Convention against Transnational Organized Crime consider inviting existing regional networks to participate in its fifth session, with the aim of improving cooperation between regional networks, the United Nations Office on Drugs and Crime and the States parties to the United Nations Convention against Transnational Organized Crime and its three supplementary protocols.¹
